Plagiarism Declaration

Plagiarism is when you use someone else's ideas as your own. In an assignment this might be because you cut and paste information from one source into your assignment, or use someone else's ideas without referencing them. Plagiarism is also when you use a past student's assignment and pass it off as your own. Even a small percent of either of these things constitutes plagiarism.

‘Plagiarism is when you pretend that you have written or created a piece of work that someone else originated. It is cheating, it is dishonest, and it could jeopardise your HSC exam results.’

It is never right to cut and paste work. You must always read through it, select the information you want and then re-write it in your own words. If you are ever in doubt, or you are including a direct quote, state from where the information came. Bibliographies should use the Harvard Method (unless requested otherwise), which is available in student diaries.

If you are submitting this assignment electronically then type your name in the signature and sending it replicates a signature of the form.

A zero mark will be awarded for the component of the task that has been plagiarised.

I declare that, to the best of my knowledge this assignment is my own work, all sources have been referenced, and the assignment contains no plagiarism.

I further declare that I have not previously submitted this work or any version of it for assessment in any other subject.
